

Foggy Albion

Тут ведется со времени оно
слово к слову спокойно вязать, толковать про туман Альбиона, будто не о чем больше сказать ...

People who live in Britain are called British. Many people think that 'English' is the same as 'British'. But England is only one of the four nations in the UK. The Scots, Welsh and Northern Irish are British too. They sometimes get angry when they are called 'English'. There are also millions of British people whose parents first came to Britain in the 1950s and 1960s from the Caribbean, India, Pakistan, Hong Kong and other places. Their homes are mainly in the big English cities like London, Birmingham and Manchester.

Land of traditions

Almost everything you came across in Britain is a result of a long history. The British are proud of their traditions and carefully keep them up. Foreigners watch with disbelief the ceremony of the keys at the Tower of London. This strange ceremony takes place every night and is 700 years old! Locking a door or a gate seems to be a simple thing. Not, however, if the gates are of the Tower of London. At 21.53 the Chief Warder of the Tower, carrying a lantern and the keys, meets the Escort of the Key. They march to the various gates and lock them ceremonially. The same beefeaters make a ceremonial search of the Houses of Parliament before the Queen arrives for the state opening of Parliament. On November 5, 1605, Guy Fawkes and his fellow conspirators planned to blow up Parliament. The plot was discovered and Guy Fawkes was hanged. But the cellars where Guy Fawkes was captured are still searched before each opening of Parliament. This is a spectacular ceremony and everything is done just as it was done almost four centuries ago.
